Gregor Štibernik, Managing Director

As AIPA enters its fifteenth year of operation, it is a fitting moment to reflect briefly but meaningfully on where we stand. Today, AIPA is one of the most modern and professionally autonomous CMOs, actively shaping both the European and global audiovisual landscapes. We are often seen as a model of good practice – and rightly so.

Under one roof, we have brought together co-authors, performers and film producers, and jointly developed an original system of collective rights management that is ideally suited to the specific needs of Slovenia's AV sector. Together, we have also helped ensure that Slovenia now has one of the most up-to-date legal frameworks for the audiovisual field. We are also working hard together to ensure that each time AIPA receives a new licence, we swiftly launch the legally defined procedures for collecting royalties and remuneration. This is vital: technology introduces new forms of use almost daily, and each one represents a new source of revenue (TV broadcasting, platforms, VOD, public venues...). In other words, more funds to collect and a larger pool to distribute to rightholders.

In 2024, AIPA carried out 26 distributions of royalties and remunerations. The total collected rights revenue and income reached 8,021,361 EUR – a 9% increase compared to 2023, or 678,530 EUR more in absolute terms. Collection based on the licences granted at the beginning of 2024 is planned for the coming year. According to the ZKUASP, a CMO and the representative user associations must first conclude a joint tariff agreement for each type of use. AIPA has already held initial meetings and will proceed further once in-depth analyses have been completed.

In addition to our core mission of collecting and distributing royalties and remunerations, AIPA has also continued to support and strengthen the domestic AV sector. In line with the law and based on decisions of our General Assembly, a total of 630,000 EUR was allocated to AIPA members and their professional associations through dedicated SCE funds. As we all know – and as the Strategic Plan for the Development of the Audiovisual Industry in Slovenia until 2030 confirms – the national AV sector is a revenue-generating industry, where every investment returns multiple times over. That is why these support funds should grow beyond their initial purpose of (personal) assistance. Let us transform them into a strategic pillar not only for sustaining but also for ensuring the long-term stability and flourishing of Slovenian AV creativity – and, through it, of Slovenian culture, economy and society as a whole.

The challenges posed by new licences, emerging modes of use, artificial intelligence and an increasingly interconnected world demand rapid response and coordinated action. That is why AIPA actively promotes operational optimisation and synergies among CMOs – not only within national borders but also across the region, throughout Europe and around the globe. AIPA is a committed member of several umbrella organisations, and our reputation and influence are evident in our activities, committee memberships and, not least, the honour of being chosen to host the 2025 SCAPR General Assembly.

Although we are living in politically and economically turbulent times, the 2024/25 period is a celebratory one for AIPA, our members and our partners at home and abroad. Our path has been anything but easy, yet time and again we prove that even the most ambitious milestones can be reached through shared strategic commitment, respect for the law, and unwavering dedication to our members. The rights we have secured must now be fully implemented. We must further strengthen the position of AV creators and ensure that those entitled to royalties and remuneration have fast, fair and effective access to the funds earned through the use of their protected works.

Let me conclude this 15th anniversary message with a simple commitment: We will continue building a future in which the value of creative work is recognised, protected and fairly rewarded.

GOVERNANCE MODEL

Vision: Among the Best

As the leading CMO in Slovenia, we will expand our international, especially regional, role through innovative business-organisational development projects led by the principles of cooperation and inclusion. We aim to create a modern system of collective rights management that keeps pace with the best global practices, along with an administrative-technical department that will provide its services for the entire region. We will also intensify our efforts to preserve and develop Slovenian culture through new (partnership) projects.

Mission: Excellence and Efficiency

We continuously seek new knowledge to develop and improve business processes for the benefit of rightholders. In collaboration with our members and the national and international AV community, we strive for comprehensive regulation of the AV sector and the establishment of a system that, through collective management, is optimal for rightholders.

Business Model: Legally Compliant, Transparent and Value-Driven

AIPA is the only national CMO of AV creators authorised to collect royalties and remuneration (R & RE) for the use of AV works on behalf of rightholders. The collected funds are accounted for, distributed and paid out as soon as possible but no later than nine months after the end of the fiscal year.

Our business model is based on European legal principles incorporated into national laws. Following the strategic directions, plans and decisions of our General Assembly and members, we accomplish AIPA's main objectives:

- Ensuring transparent operations built on equality and participatory decision-making.
- Maintaining optimal relations with users and effectively collecting R & RE.
- Accurately managing data.
- Protecting right holders' interests and ensuring the appropriate rights revenue for the use of their works.

- Raising awareness among all stakeholders.

As employees, we are committed to the rule of law and the legality of our actions. Our work is guided by openness, respect and consideration for all stakeholders, as well as fairness, dedication and commitment.

We aim to share these values within the organisation with each AIPA member and externally in our business and professional partnerships, as they are also woven into our social responsibility.

Social Responsibility: Mutual Support for the Common Good

As a CMO in the AV sector, we are well aware of the importance of the core principles of social responsibility. AIPA is actively engaged in a wide range of initiatives – from organising events for diverse audiences to distributing funds from our dedicated SCE funds. We also play a key role in shaping social mechanisms (such as the sweeping reforms to ZKUASP) and in promoting fairness and equality, particularly by working to ensure that AV creators are granted the same legal standing as their peers in the literary and music fields.

Some of the key measures AIPA has adopted to uphold its social responsibility include:

Social Equality.

- Promoting a diverse organisational landscape and supporting the activities of numerous professional associations in the national AV industry.
- Ensuring that AIPA members have fair and equal access to resources for social, cultural and educational purposes through our dedicated SCE funds.

Governance.

- In line with our ISO 9001 certification, applying our expertise to drive progress, create new job opportunities and optimise workflows – all of which lead to more efficient organisational performance.
- Identifying both opportunities and risks in the working environment and responding to them effectively.

Organisational Culture and Ethics.

- Providing employees with a supportive work environment with ethical and equitable relationships, as well as modern equipment, employee-friendly surroundings and the latest tools.

- Encouraging remote working and flexible working hours.
- Prioritising employee well-being through training and promoting a healthy lifestyle.
- Working with experts and institutions in the fields of IT, (IP) law and management to enable AIPA to consistently excel in the international arena.
- Sharing innovations with our business partners and members, as AIPA's objectives can only be developed and achieved through quality, professional relationships.

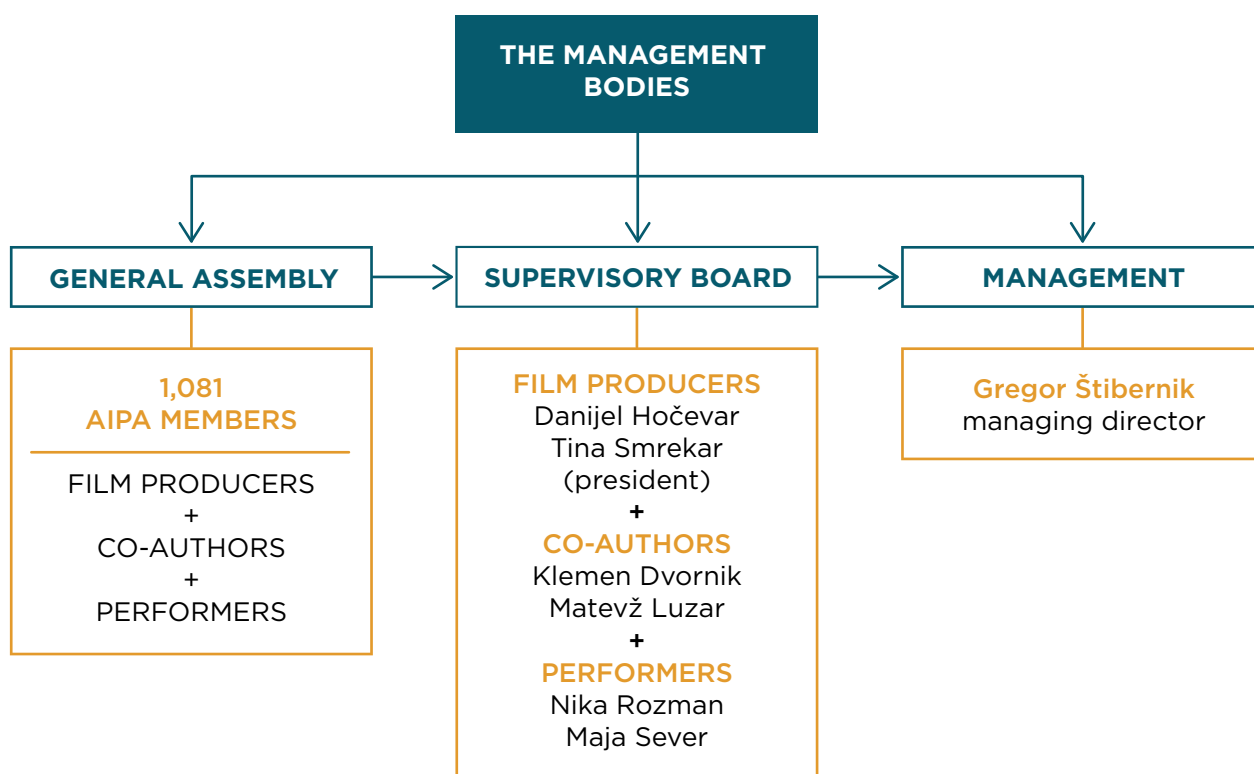

Environmental Sustainability.

- Promoting green mobility in line with the goals of the European Green Deal.
- Conducting more business meetings, especially international ones, remotely.
- Implementing a digital mail tracking system and furthering our shift towards paperless operations.

Even the name – collective management organisation – commits AIPA to working for the common good and advancing shared interests. At the heart of this is communication: above all, regular updates to rightholders of protected AV works, open dialogue with users and the active participation of AIPA members in our governance. Within the national AV industry, this also means constructive cooperation with interest-based associations, relevant public institutions and other domestic CMOs. In the global context, it includes exchanging knowledge and experience with sister organisations and staying engaged in international developments through membership in leading AV umbrella bodies.

AIPA's governance bodies are structured in accordance with the Collective Management of Copyright and Related Rights Act (ZKUASP). The General Assembly – AIPA's highest decision-making body – operates with transparency and accountability, alongside the Supervisory Board and Management. The ZKUASP requires the involvement of rightholders in governance, ensuring their equal participation in all key decision-making processes.

COLLECTIVELY MANAGED RIGHTS

In 2010, AIPA received its first licences for collective rights management: the right of cable retransmission (RR) for co-authors and the right of private copying (PC) for all three groups of rightholders. After 12 years of steady effort, these early achievements have led to significant progress: today, AIPA collectively manages a growing number of additional rights. Just four more licences stand between us and our long-term goal – a comprehensive legal framework that enable the efficient, one-stop collection of royalties and remuneration.

According to multiple criteria, AIPA ranks among the most effective CMOs – not only in Slovenia, but also in the region and around the world. This standing is supported by international reports, comparative analyses and recognition from umbrella organisations, which increasingly view AIPA as a model of good governance and transparent operation. With our modern technological solutions, high degree of automation and reliable remuneration distribution mechanisms, AIPA is making a strong contribution to the protection of AV creators and the growth of the AV sector both at home and abroad.

TOTAL COLLECTED RIGHTS REVENUE AND THE SHARE OF COSTS IN THE TOTAL COLLECTED RIGHTS REVENUE, 2011-2024

AIPA had a record-breaking year in 2024: we collected the highest amount of remuneration in our history. We also distributed a record sum among beneficiaries, meaning more funds reached creators and producers than ever before. Efficient licensing agreements, the expansion of managed rights and the optimisation of internal processes all contributed to this exceptional growth, further solidifying AIPA's role as a key pillar of collective management in Slovenia and the wider region.

New Rights for Rightholders, New Negotiations with Users

The year couldn't have started on a better note: AIPA received licences from the relevant authority to manage 12 new rights for all three categories of right-holders, with four additional rights for co-authors still in the approval process (see the table Collectively Managed Rights, p. 13). The newly granted licences cover nearly all forms of use of protected works – including platforms. We expect that within two years the system (including collected funds and an expanded distribution pool) will be fully operative.

For now, AIPA cannot yet begin collecting remuneration for the rights covered by the licences granted in January and February 2024. However, once the legally required interim steps are completed, AIPA will be able to collect retroactively (from the date of licence issuance) – including the conclusion of a joint tariff agreement for each type of use, as mandated by law. These agreements must be signed by AIPA and the representative user associations (ZKOS, ZSODT, GZS, OZ, etc.). With goodwill on all sides, the first distributions could be made as early as 2026.

Dedicated SCE Funds – Empowering AV Creators

Through its dedicated SCE funds, AIPA supports a wide range of member education initiatives – from scholarships and tuition reimbursements to covering membership fees in international organisations and attendance at training workshops. It also co-finances professional development through representative associations. Especially in times of crisis (whether due to the pandemic, energy and food inflation or floods), social support has been an invaluable resource.

AIPA aims to develop its system of SCE funds further – not only as a mechanism to balance distribution pools but also as a tool (subject to General Assembly decisions) to support projects of exceptional importance for AV creators, such as professional or promotional events related to the AV industry. Similar approaches already exist in neighbouring countries like Croatia and Austria.

In 2024, AIPA paid out a total of 637,244 EUR from its SCE funds (see the table on p. 22 and the graphs on pp. 15 and 22).

The Stars of Orion – Honouring Excellence in Slovenian AV Creativity

At our now-traditional awards ceremony, we celebrated outstanding creativity and excellence in Slovenian AV production in 2023:

- 3 equal Brightest Stars of Orion for acting excellence: Mojca Funkl (V imenu ljudstva (III)) and Kaja Podreberšek and Gaj Črnič (both Beanie)
- 3 equal Butnskala awards for daringness and creativity: Ivana Novak (Televizorka – TV show), Miha Vipotnik (Wracked Piano – docudrama) and Janez Burger (Observing – fiction film)

DOMESTIC DISTRIBUTION OF R & RE

The distribution of royalties (R) and remuneration (RE) is the process by which AIPA allocates the funds collected from users to the eligible rightholders. The distribution rules – predefined, transparent and adopted by the General Assembly as AIPA's highest governing body – guarantee a fair, proportionate and traceable allocation based on the actual use of AV works. This process is essential for ensuring that creators and other rightholders receive fair remuneration for the use of their AV works.

STEPS IN THE DISTRIBUTION PROCESS

The distribution of royalties (R) and remuneration (RE) is one of the most complex and responsible tasks of any CMO. It is a precise, transparent and expertly managed process that directly affects creators' trust and the fair recognition of their work. This process involves aligning large volumes of data, carefully tracking the use of copyrighted works, and continually adapting methodologies to new technological and market conditions. Only through consistent and accountable work in this area can a CMO truly fulfil its core mission – ensuring fair compensation for every eligible rightholder.

COMMUNITY INSIGHTS

JANUARY

Closer cooperation among Slovenian CMOs

The small size of the national market, the diversification of collected revenues and, above all, operational optimisation, are encouraging Slovenian CMOs to collaborate more closely and avoid unnecessary duplication when developing their business models. As a first step, the initiators of the agreement – IPF, AIPA and ZAMP – are planning to launch a unified application for determining the obligations of individual users (hospitality venues, shops, businesses and events), which will also enable the online conclusion of individual contracts. This will be followed by the introduction of a single invoice. The end goal is a cost-effective, transparent and simple system for collecting royalties and remuneration – both for users and the participating CMOs. In April, AIPA and IPF also signed a letter of intent to consolidate the management of certain rights on videograms, especially music videos. All Slovenian CMOs are invited to participate.

AIPA General Assembly – successful, transparent, by consensus

AIPA members – co-authors, performers and film producers – supported all proposed resolutions. In the producers' category, Tina Smrekar and Danijel Hočevár were elected as representatives to the Supervisory Board. One of the key decisions was the determination of contributions to the dedicated SCE funds, which play an important role in empowering members, as well as the total amount allocated to the Stars of Orion awards promoting excellence and creativity in Slovenian AV works – traditionally presented by AIPA.

The assembly also presented the results of a March survey among rightholders summed up as: Keep up the good work!

A special June issue of Megafon – Distribution: From Right to Payment – For Creativity further reaffirmed AIPA's commitment to honest communication and consistent transparency.

NOVEMBER

Clear rules of use!

As efforts to curb piracy and regulate streaming platforms continue, artificial intelligence (AI) is rapidly gaining ground. While AI can be a useful tool, it raises serious concerns – particularly when platforms are built on protected content without creators' consent, let alone compensation. Cultural and creative umbrella organisations have called on EU policymakers to sensibly implement the AI Act. AIPA supports this call, while warning: the Act grants no economic rights. From 2027, creators will only be informed that their protected content was used. The next step is essential – creators must also be paid when their work is used, especially if the law denies them any effective means to grant or refuse permission.

DECEMBER

A rich harvest of awards for minority co-productions

Palme d'Or and EFA Award: the short fiction film The Man Who Could Not Remain Silent (HR); co-producer Boštjan Virč (Studio Virč), director of photography Gregor Božič, supporting role, Nebojša Pop Tašić.
